

Dr. Simmy King is the Chief Nursing Informatics and Education Officer at Children's National Hospital and an Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, The George Washington University School of Medicine and Health Sciences. As the Chief Nursing Informatics and Education Officer, Dr. King leads the strategy and implementation of information systems, technology, and education to advance clinical nursing practice and the safe delivery of patient care. In addition, Dr. King is an appraiser for the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC) Practice Transition Accreditation Program (PTAP). In this role, she reviews and assesses candidates' applications against PTAP standards and criteria, facilitates virtual site visits, and informs the Commission on Accreditation of Practice Transition Accreditation Programs report on accreditation. Currently, Dr. King serves as the Treasurer for the American Organization for Nursing Leadership (AONL) Board of Directors and as a Commissioner for the City of Fairfax, VA Commission for Women. Most recently Dr. King was elected as a Member-at-Large for the Virginia Organization for Nursing Leadership and will begin her two-year term in January 2023. Dr. King has also served as a DC Board of Nursing Board Member and as a judge for Johnson & Johnson Nurses Innovate QuickFire Challenge in COVID-19 Patient Care.